

Isaac, Michael. "#YNaijaArt99: Peju Alatise, David Uzochukwu, Ayobola Kekere-Ekun| The 99 Most Influential Nigerians in Art," YNaija, 30 October 2020.

As is YNaija's annual tradition, the anticipated Art 99 list has just been revealed, introducing the most influential figures in the world of contemporary art. Compiled in consultation with a Juror, it ranks individuals and organisations influencing the art sphere. Who made the cut and is counted among the art Nigeria's most influential players? See below:

Marcia Kure: Kure is a Nigerian contemporary painter. Trained at the University of Nigeria, Nsukka, Kure's work is a fusion of paintings and drawings that engage with post-colonial existentialist conditions and identities. Kure's early work focused on political violence and the agency of women in a patriarchal society. Her recent work, however, has been concerned with themes related to motherhood, haute couture fashion, hip-hop aesthetics.
